TWO BIG CENTENNIAL EVENTS

AT ST. ANDREW'S

MAY 13 -
BAZAAR AND FUN FAIR

Canada's Centennial will be celebrated at St. Andrew's with not one, but TWO important events. The first will be a gigantic Bazaar & Fun Fair from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday, May 13, for all parents and Old Boys, and their families. The public will also be welcome. This is a project of the present students and will include an amazing array of activities for young and old - cricket matches (Old Boys' sons versus their fathers, and Old Boys versus the First Team), rugger matches, international field hockey tournament, games for children of all ages with prizes to be won, pony rides, trail rides, car washing, barbecues, helicopters, raffles, auction sales and flea market, antique car show and art show - you name it - and of course the Cadet Corps Pipe Band will be on hand. The whole idea is to attract as many people as possible to the School on that day. Net proceeds of the day will go to the boys' Service Committee for their Centennial Project to furnish a convalescent lounge for teenagers at the York County Hospital in Newmarket. The voluntary collection taken at the musical production "OLIVER!", the White Elephant (it was something to behold!) Sale, and other activities conducted by the boys amongst themselves have already produced over $1,400 so far this year, and they are confident that their objective of $3,000 will be reached.

For Old Boys, this is an ideal opportunity to show wives and children your old school, and for parents to see how your sons organize and carry out an undertaking of their own. It truly will be a family day and should be lots of fun.

Mark the date of Saturday, May 13 on your calendar or engagement book now - and plan to spend the day at the School. You'll meet lots of friends!

"JUNE BALL" - FRIDAY, JUNE 16

The Ladies Guild of St. Andrew's in conjunction with the St. Andrew's College Foundation are repeating, by popular request, the hugely successful "JUNE BALL" held last year, only bigger and better to mark Canada's Centennial. Can you imagine a more perfect setting - cocktails outdoors against a background of the setting sun - dining in the handsome Great Hall - and dancing on the grass in the cool of the evening. (Bring along a pair of low-heel shoes, ladies!) The magnificent grounds of the School are at their best at this time of year, and the weatherman has been instructed to co-operate. If he fails to do so, adequate arrangements have been made to move proceedings inside. This is a "must" for everyone with any connection with the School. The Ladies promise you a wonderful evening. Invitations will be going out soon to all parents and Old Boys, so be on the lookout for it.

Many enquiries have been received about the Ceilidh, held annually for Old Boys and their wives, until a few years ago. We can tell you that the "June Ball" will have all the essential ingredients of this popular event, including Scottish dancing to the pipes and drums of the 48th Highlanders under Pipe Major Stewart, and the music of Mart Kenney and his orchestra. Tables for the sumptuous buffet dinner can be reserved for ten so you can make up a party of your friends or classmates; AND, best news of all, the price of the ticket is deductible for income tax purposes since all proceeds accrue to the Foundation. Here's your chance to make a painless contribution to the Foundation's efforts on behalf of the School, with a great party thrown in!

A DAY AND A NIGHT TO REMEMBER

WHAT ST. ANDREW'S MEANS TO ME

The following essay appeared in the St. Andrew's College Review a few years ago and we feel is worthy of wider publication.

To me, St. Andrew's has been the mental, physical, and moral turning point around which my whole future life will revolve.

Five years ago, when I first entered this school, I was a rather naive Spanish-speaking young boy entering a new and strange world radically different from his sheltered home. The first two years were hard. I had to learn a foreign language and endure the jokes and teasing of the other boys because I was fat and did not take part in sports. To be quite frank, during the first few months I was completely lost and miserable.

This, however, was inevitable. No-body can help anyone to change from a protected young boy to a self-sufficient person. The change only comes with pain, experience, and thought. I had never been away from home for very long, and suddenly I found myself left on my own. I had two choices: either strive to overcome my handicap, or else hide behind it, and let my stay at St. Andrew's be a fruitless and painless one. I chose to strive. It was a difficult struggle; but thanks to the school and to the help of every boy in it, I think I can say that I won through. I can now say that I know the type of people with whom I want to be friendly. I can also live within a community and take an active part in its life.

When I say I was helped by every boy in the school I am thinking mostly of my many friends; though it will be obvious that in a school like this, and indeed every community, one is also helped paradoxically by those who are unfriendly and cold. Such as these taught me that virtue that can only be obtained through practice - patience. Others, by their indifference, showed me that I could not please everybody at the same time, and that he who tries too hard to be friendly is often boring and undesirable. But as I said, it is my friends of whom I mostly think, who encouraged and helped me in a positive way, thus making my contact with people complete. To them more than to any others I am indebted because of their help and encouragement.

I was also helped more than I can say by the masters, and it is largely thanks to them that my mental outlook has reached its present state,—far though it might be from its apex or maturity. They taught me to think for myself, and their reserved guidance and help showed me that in life I should not expect to get everything on a silver platter. Except for a fortunate few, most of us will have to work for a living, and we must therefore realize that what we want exists somewhere, and that those with strength of character go out and get it. Now, as I am about to graduate from St. Andrew's I feel that I shall not be lost in a strange and foreign world, for I have already in my possession the key required to open most of the mental problems that might face me.

Discipline, physical development, and respect of authority are three more qualities that St. Andrew's has helped me to cultivate. Indifference to law, order, and physical appearance indicates the presence of a poor spirit in which wisdom and knowledge can find no dwelling place. The cadet corps, tedious though it may often seem, was to me one of the greatest assets of St. Andrew's

It taught me that discipline is vital to anyone who would like to lead a successful life. Football taught me the value of teamwork and cooperation. It also stressed the need of physical development and exercise. St. Andrew's has also taught me to respect authority, first by placing me under it, and later by giving me some, thus making me realize the thankless lot of the man who has to make his own decisions. Organization, a healthy body, and a respect for authority are great assets for life.

But moral growth is perhaps the greatest gift of St. Andrew's to me. Here I have learned, by studying certain individuals, by means of philosophy lectures, and by reading, that there is a loftier ambition in life—that to stand high in the world. It is to stoop down and try to lift our fellow men a little. Here at St. Andrew's we soon see that we must take our stand on the point of religion and morals. We must be either Jews, or Protestants, or Catholics, or else decide to make our life Atheistic. This not only helps us to classify ourselves under another organization to which we may offer our efforts, but also gives us a moral conception by which to judge our actions in other spheres, as for instance in relation to our fellows. Many of us might not notice this new moral force until four or five years after we leave St. Andrew's but if we were to look back and seek the origin of the line of thought that later led us to take a certain moral stand, we would probably find that it stems from some reading at St. Andrew's, or chapel service or philosophy lecture, from some discussion with a master or a fellow student.

No school can ever expect to produce robots. That is why we all get different things out of St. Andrew's; why I shall always have pleasant memories of "that hole" as I often called it. I have tried to give here an outline of the reasons why I love it. I have tried to express in words why I have experienced that intangible "school spirit" at football games and other activities, and why I would not hesitate to stand up and defend this school whenever I can. Much of what I have written may sound old fashioned, or even excessive, but nevertheless I feel that it should be said from time to time, if only as a reminder of the values which at heart we all prize. St. Andrew's has made me aware of any moral duties and obligations; and it is my sincere opinion that if I am ever to be a significant person in my community I shall have to cultivate the moral principles which stem from these my "good old" Andean days.

Now, as I am about to leave St. Andrew's I look back on my most profitable five years there, and I cannot help but remember the school motto, & hope that it will guide me later on in my life — "Quit you like men, be strong". I hope I will always remember, too, the rest of that New Testament quotation. "Let all your things be done with brotherly love".

CHANGE OF ADDRESS

HAVE YOU BEEN RECEIVING The Andean, calendars, invitations to special activities of the Old Boys' Association and the School regularly? If not, perhaps it is because you have not notified us of your new address. We would like to emphasize the necessity of letting us know when you anticipate moving so there will be no delay in mailings. Only if we have your address can we fulfill the service you expect from your Association. Old Boys who have been receiving their mail at university will please inform us if and when they leave and where they would like their mail directed.

EXPO 67 VISITORS

No doubt a number of Old Boys from various parts of the continent and elsewhere will be visiting EXPO 67 in Montreal during the next six months. We offer the suggestion that this might be a timely opportunity to revisit St. Andrew's.

Excellent highway facilities and frequent air and rail service exists between Toronto and Montreal and Aurora is only 21 miles north of Toronto on Highway No. 11.

The Headmaster extends a cordial invitation to come along anytime and Jim Hamilton, Secretary of the Old Boys' Association, expects to be on hand most of the summer.

OLD BOYS' CRICKET

This year's cricket match of Old Boys versus the First Team takes place on Saturday, May 13, as part of the Centennial Day activities noted elsewhere in this issue.

Any Old Boy who would like to play should contact David Love '65 "West Winds", R.R. 2, King City, Ont. Telephone 859-3841.

LADIES' GUILD LIFE MEMBERSHIPS

By a vote of the members at the Fall meeting, the Ladies Guild is again this year turning over the full amount of Life Memberships received to the St. Andrew's College Foundation. The Trustees of the Foundation are very grateful to the Guild for this generous act, and acknowledge receipt of $525 to date from 19 individuals.

YEARS OF PROGRESS

These photographs, together with the one on the front page, clearly portray the growth of St. Andrew's College over its 68 year history. Founded in 1899 by the Reverend George Bruce, B.A., D.D., of St. John, N.B., its first home was the former residence of the late Sir David Macpherson, "Chestnut Park", located at what is now the corner of Yonge Street and Roxborough Street East in Toronto.

In 1905, having outgrown its original quarters, the School moved into handsome new quarters built for it in North Rosedale. Of Perpendicular Gothic architecture, in red brick and white Bedford stone, St. Andrew's was a landmark in Rosedale until its demolition in 1926. Amazing to think that this building had a total life of only 21 years!

The fall of 1926 brought the fulfillment of the late Dr. D. Bruce Macdonald's desire for essentially a residential school in a true country setting, when St. Andrew's occupied its present location in Aurora, with 219 acres of amply wooded property, it is unmatched by any school in Canada.

Below Dr. Macdonald proudly raises the flag at the "new" School 41 years ago, with an admiring group of students of the time. To the original buildings at Aurora have been added the Chapel, Macdonald House, the Great Hall, the auditorium and classroom wing of Dunlap Hall, and the masters' houses.

"OLIVER" FILLS KETCHUM AUDITORIUM

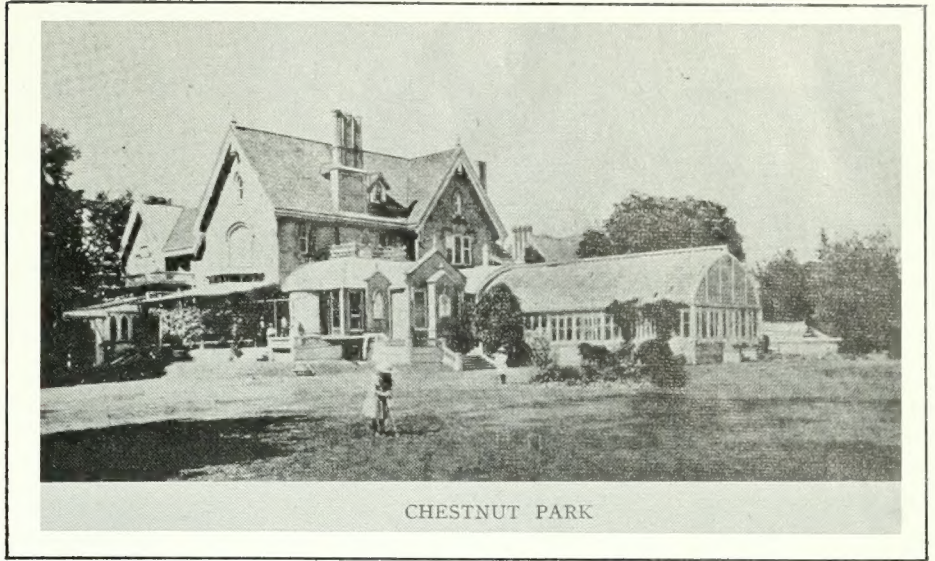

More than the 520 seats of the School's magnificent auditorium were required to accommodate the overflow audience of parents, Old Boys, their families and friends on Saturday, March 4 for the musical Oliver! It was impossible to include the students who were not taking part, but fortunately a performance for their benefit took place the previous night. Put on by the boys of the School under the direction of Mr. Kamcke, the performance was of a remarkably high calibre. A cast of 50, plus another 30 in the band and behind the scenes meant that almost one third of the student body was involved.

Leading parts were taken by David Hally as Oliver, Jamie Crookston as Fagin, Murray Shields as Bill Sykes, Jim Pallett as the Artful Dodger. Mrs. Alison Roberts was imported from the Aurora Drama Workshop to play Nancy, which she did with great enthusiasm. Other major cast members were Fred Duggan, Brian Marshall, Bob Ball, Reed Osborne, Bruce Owens, Day Pritchard, Richard Paine, Sandy Pratt, Jim Jackson, Dean Agnew and Robin Campbell. The many changes of scene were smoothly handled by the hard working stage crew under Stage Manager Randy Oswell.

In addition to Mr. Kamcke, great credit goes to Mr. Dawson, the musical Director of the School, for the excellent calibre of the singing and the band, not to mention his flawless accompaniment at the piano.

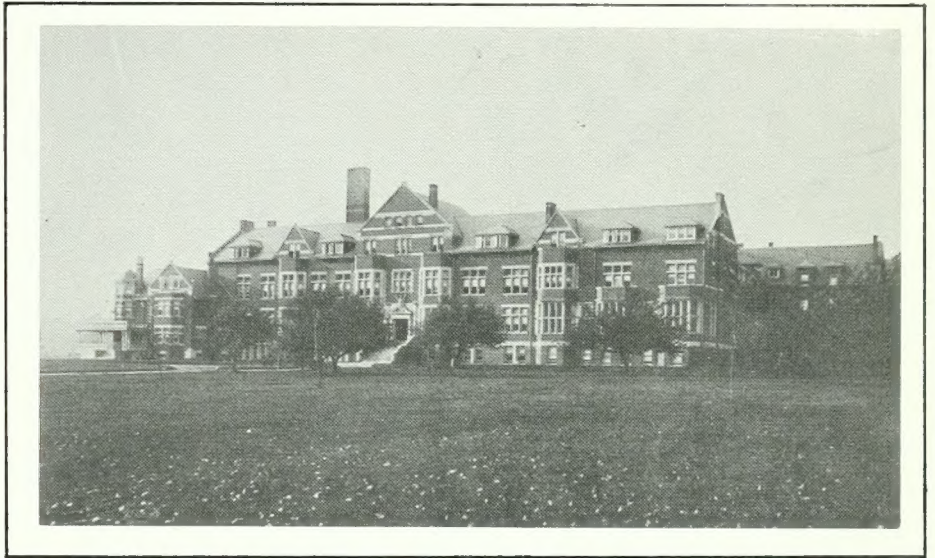

Representing many hours of rehearsals, as it did, the Andean extends congratulations for a wonderful evening to Mr. Kamcke and the other staff members who assisted him.

1899-1905

CHESTNUT PARK

1905-1926

Dramatics are an enriching element in the life of St. Andrew's. In addition to their annual Variety Night, an interesting event this year was "FLUP", an evening of songs, readings, skits and instrumental combos organized, directed and performed entirely by the boys under a committee headed by Bill Chapman.

Fagin (Jamie Crookston) introduces Oliver (David Hally) to his gang of thieves and pickpockets with the song "You've Got to Pick a Pocket or Two".

The entire cast prepares to take a bow at the finale against the background of London Bridge.

SCHOOL ATHLETICS

Hockey, basketball, swimming, fencing, and skiing provided the athletic endeavours during the winter term at the School. It is worthy of note that 130 boys represented S.A.C. in 82 events with other schools in this period. Those not fortunate enough to make School teams, took part in the intramural Clan leagues which always produce spirited competition. An average of 60 boys went on the Sunday ski trips. Let no one say St. Andrew's doesn't have an active sports program!

Of special note was the fine performance of the Fencing team - the boys beat off all challengers for the Wren Trophy, representing the Ontario Secondary Schools Association Championship which they have now held for three years. Hats off to the Third Hockey team and Coach M. Kinney, too, for an outstanding season with 9 wins in 10 games and capturing the LBF Championship for their age group.

The swimmers under Mr. Guggino again put up a good showing, winning all their dual meets but one, and finishing a close second to Ridley in the Little Big Four meet at Hart House.

NICK GLASSOW at present in Upper VI at the School, has been selected for Canadian Colts Cricket Team to tour U.K. during the summer.

NEWS! NEWS!

LET'S

HAVE MORE NEWS!

How about it, Andreans? From the look of the next column, Old Boys have stopped getting married and becoming fathers! We can't believe this.

Do drop us a line at the School telling us about yourselves or other Andreans. You may not think it's of interest, but your friends of School days will. We particularly want to hear from those in faraway places. And you lads at universities, we want to hear about your activities, too.

Marriages

STAFF - DEREK INGLIS to Bettyne Erica Coldham of Toronto on March 27 in the Chapel of St. Andrew's College.

OLD BOYS' BONSPIEL

The Board of Trade Country Club at Woodbridge was the scene of the Second Annual Bonspiel on Saturday, February 4. While the number of entries left something to be desired with only 30 turning out, enthusiasm ran high and most of the games were very close. Eight rinks were made up with a couple having only three members. After two games Gordon Middleton '47 of Huntsville emerged as the winning skip, ably assisted by Fred Leslie '51, Iain Brown '50 and Walter Somerville '53. A hard working threesome of Bill Graham '52, Bill Adams '35 and George Vanderburgh '65 were runners-up, while Headmaster Bob Coulter skipped his rink of Tom Gordon '31, Bill Dean '39 and Gordon Kelly '52 into third place.

Once again The Old Boys Association is indebted to Bill Graham and his Curling Committee for their time and energy in organizing the Bonspiel. Choice of a suitable date for this event needs careful consideration for next year to avoid conflict with curlers' club competitions and the skiing season. Perhaps earlier or later in the season would be more satisfactory. The Association will welcome anyone's views on the subject.

Looking becomingly modest, Skip Gord Middleton and his rink accept the winner's trophy.
